CONCERT MONDAY NIGHT

Benefit of Indigent Families of Soldiers.

The concert Monday night, gotten up under the auspices of Mrs. Cranwell, the accomplished organist, comes respectably off. The programme was a choice one, and the execution of it did the warm-hearted audience, composed of the beauty and chivalry of Talladega, great credit. Those who attended must feel good while we felicitate them upon their liberality, and the privilege of listening to delightful notes and sweet intonations of cultivated song. The Misses Tarrant, and Mrs. Cranwell displaying much talent as well as execution. The duet of Miss "K" and Miss "J." displayed great taste in their acception of the poesy of that most beautiful of instruments the guitar, to which was a Hymn of song and instrumental blending, to be remembered in the history of music in Talladega. The most perfect quorum existed. The Governor's friends. Bless the women they are always ready to help the soldier in his suffering and distress—we thank Mrs. Cranwell and Miss Jones and Miss Jones for their kindness in lending their talents to Music in behalf of the soldiers.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, C. S. A.

Richmond, August 24, 1863.

Hon. C. M. T. Hunter, Senate—

Sir: In reply to your inquiries about the finances, I send you a condensed statement of the issue of Treasury notes, and of the funding operations of the Treasury. You will see from this statement, that the funding has been eminently successful; and you will see also, that the amount of outstanding Treasury notes is less than which was reported to Congress at the last session. My report then estimated the amount of of circulation which the country could profitably bear at $150,000,000.

The statements now made, shows that the outstanding Treasury notes, used as general currency, amount almost exactly to three times this amount. But, when it is considered that a very large portion of these notes are across the Mississippi, it will be apparent, that in the Atlantic States the estimate is three to one, rather over than under the mark. Two absorbents are now added which will keep down the excess from new issues—namely, the taxes and the sale of cotton bonds—and when the tax in kind begins to contribute its proportion to the support of the army, there is every reason to believe that the currency can be well sustained.

It is obvious, from this statement that the popular notion of estimating the value of the currency by a comparison with gold, is altogether fallacious; for while the actual volume of currency has only been increased three fold, its proportion to gold rates at more than double that amount.—The fact is, as you well know, that although we are, and it is as much a commercial necessity as piety or sin, and its price is governed by the law of demand and supply. As I have already shown, in the report re ferred to, wheat and corn afford much more reliable standards of value, when their price is not controlled by some local obstruction; and by reference to these tests, it will be seen that the currency maintains itself upon a basis which is entirely satisfactory to the country. You will perceive, by the statement, that uniting all the various appliances for funding, there has been funded in bonds $232,104,670, to which, according to estimate, there is yet to be added about $70,000,000 more, which are yet in the hands of the Treasury officers to be funded, making, in all, about $302,000,000 add to this $15,442,000 deposited in the five per cent. call loan, and we have an aggregate of nearly $318,000,000 withdrawn from the currency.

The result is certainly very favorable, and shows that the measures adopted by Congress have been quite as successful as any of us had anticipated. It is somewhat remarkable, that the Yankee Government should have adopted exactly the same measures for withdrawing their circulation, and, according to a statement published in Hunt's Magazine for June, for July, they have funded in all their end bonds about $300,000,000.

These figures show that there is no reason for distrust as to our currency, and if, when Congress meets, you will all address yourselves especially to measures which will restrict its further increase, we shall be able to maintain our cause. I would suggest to you two matters for consideration: One is the export duty which I proposed; and the other, is a renewal of the call loan for all Treasury notes, upon the same principle, with the six per cent. call loan, which was reported at the last session.

It is worth the experiment to try, whether, by allowing a deposit in the Treasury, on interest, we may not be able to attract and retain there all the Treasury notes not actually required for circulation.

Very truly, yours,

C. G. MEMMINGER,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Our Finances.

A lengthy letter has appeared from Mr. Toombs, in the Georgia press, on the subject of our finances. The following is an extract:

"The Federal Government have committed two radical errors in the management of our finances, which produced our present calamitous condition by the operations of laws of currency, as fixed, certain, and immutable as those which govern the movements of the planetary system. The Confederate States have large natural resources, and unequalled elements of public wealth. We borrowed gold at par for our bonds—wealth laid in treasures at our feet, and poverty itself claimed it as a privilege to augment our resources with its mite.—Folly has mainly contributed to the drying up of this living fountain of public supply. The next great error was in attempting currency on a great and expensive war solely on credit—without taxation. This is the fundamental perversion, without which permanent will hardly bear its repetition. During the first year of its existence, the present Congress neither levied nor collected a single cent of taxes, and postponed the collection of those levied for, the second year to a period finally, too late to support our currency. The second error inevitably resulted from the first, and consummated the destruction of public credit. This error was the use of the public credit almost exclusively in the form of currency. The natural result of this policy was plain, inevitable, overwhelming. It is a well settled and sound principle in currency, that no more of which has a sufficient quantity of circulating medium properly to answer the wants of its trade and commerce, cannot add to the value of that currency by any further addition to its quantity. In the ordinary state of trade, any excess of the proper quantity exhibits itself in the form of the exportation of bullion; and the money in importation. When, from any cause whatever, the operation of this law is prevented, any redundancy of currency must necessarily depreciate the whole mass and this depreciation will exhibit itself in the rise in prices of all commodities which it circulates.

* * * * * * *

The history of the currency of our enemies since the beginning of this war is humiliating to us. Neither had foreign credits; both had powerful and established State governments to back them.

We were united in favor of the very thing we wished. They have exhausted their credit, their power upon that the money, and paid their soldiers better than we have. Their treasury notes sell at a discount of less than thirty per cent. owns at more than one thousand—the reason is solely that their system of credit has better management and more firmly adhered to the true principles of currency than ours. In all else we have had the advantage. I have endeavored to point out the main difficulty in our financial policy and have, to the best of my judgment, traced it to its true source—excess in currency, not national debility.
